

MANIFESTO

by LI Shuk Wun (Sharon)

More than 9.5 billion people,
7 billion internet users,
3 billion cars, 5 billion bicycles,
12 years until the end of oil,
AI partners, driverless cars, air travel...

These are the predictions of 2050, futurologists aim to manifest the consequences from now on social, political, ecological, technological and economic aspects. But not only them, we can, and we should shape our own future.

1. We cannot predict the future, but we can invent it.
2. We have the capacity to adapt to changes, and give form to the future.
3. Project ourselves into the future.
4. There is no definition for the future.
5. Take the past as reference.
6. The fabric of human life is woven with not only technology, but also moments.
7. Contextualizing the interaction between human and technology.
8. No new extraction to build the future.
9. Public spaces in cities are opportunities.
10. Futures are not a destination, but a chance to execute creative thoughts.
